

Patricia Fox MSGD scooped a prestigious award from the British Association of Landscape Industries (BALI) for the Landscape Design Excellence Award 2009.

BALI Landscape Design Excellence Award ceremony was held at the Grosvenor House Hotel, London, December 4th, Andy Sturgeon took the principal award for the category but awards were given to 3 other designers in the category, including Patricia Fox of Aralia Garden Design, Arabella Lennox Boyd and Christine Parsons. Patricia's award was for a domestic garden in Essex, the judges comments were,

'A good, well balanced design responding to and meeting the client's brief well. This is a delightful domestic garden with soft and sophisticated planting that is in keeping with the overall style' BALI Judging Panel.

(gill I have attached a picture of the garden if this can be included? in the news release?)

Also we have just (announced today) been chosen by BALI as the designer for the BALI Worldskills UK Landscape Gardening Competition 2010 & 2011, which will take place at various shows across the country next year. This years design was created by the highly acclaimed designer Andy Sturgeon and we hope that we will provide an equally stunning design for the entrants to work with next year. We are thrilled to have been awarded this prestigious honour and look forward to working with BALI on these designs.
